Art Unit: 1752

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 10-06-06 has been entered.

2. Claims 1, 2, 4, 12-17, 19, 21 and 22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Aoai et al. in view of Fujimaka et al. and Aoshima et al. for the same reasons as set forth in paragraph 1 of the final rejection filed 6-6-06. The acid generators in Aoaki et al (col.42, line 61-col.43, line 3) are chosen from known compounds that are light sensitive acid or radical generators even though electron beams or X-rays are used in the processes of Aoaki et al. Also, Fujimaka et al. and Aoshima et al (col.4, line 55-col. 5, line 46) disclose that the acid generators in Aoaki et al. are heat and light sensitive. The instant claims do not materially distinguish over the compositions of Aoaki et al. coated on supports even though the intended use for making printing plates is not disclosed as explained in the final rejection. Applicants' argument that Aoaki et al. and Fujimaki et al. are not combinable is unconvincing since the secondary prior art is cited to show inherent properties of acid generator compounds used in Aoaki et al.

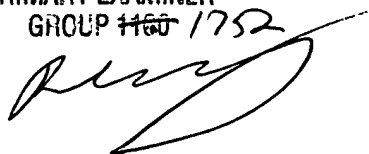

3. Claims 3 and 23-28 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims. The elements in Aoaki et al are not used on Al supports for printing plates but rather on Si, ITO or glass supports for making circuits. The secondary prior art has different polymer binders from Aoaki et al. so that using the particular compositions of Aoaki et al. on lithographic plate Al supports is not suggested in the applied prior art. The applied prior art is silent as to the ink receptive properties of the resists formed in Aoaki et al.
